(1x	prior to 10 January indicate that the headquarters of the VP army activated in the northeastern area of East Germany is located in Pasewalk. Commanding general of the VP army was Major General Hermann Rontsch, his deputy was Colonel Riedel (fnu).
	General staff officer in charge of supplies was Lieutenant Colonel Johannes Rochlitzer, a member of the former Sevolitz army. Divisions assigned to the army were located in Prenzlau and Eggesin. The division in Frenzlau, which was under the command of Colonel Fiedel, used installations No I in Pasewalk, No II in Stellberg, No IV in Prenzlau and No V in Pinnow. The division in Eggesin, which was under the command of Colonel Weiss (fnu), probably used installations No VII in Eggesin, No VIII in Kerpin, No IX in Spechtberg and No X in Altwarp. The superior headquarters of the units quartered at installations Nos III in Prora and No IV in Droegeheide could not be determined.

	rary facilities in the Eggesin area. The Soviet komendatura was still housed in a fuilding on Frenzlauer Strasse, opposite to the cemetery, while Major General Rentsch was billeted in an annex of this building. The two houses were connected by underground cables and overhead telephone lines. A lumber and coal dump with railroad connection was being established on the northern perimeter of the town. A cold-storage building was under construction for the VP behind this dump. A VP hospital was being erected on the highway to Frenzlau, about 1 km from Pasewalk. One block was said to be partially occupied during the reported period.
11	On 8 January, a train of 60 flatcars loaded with tractors and trailers passed through Pasewalk toward Torgalow. On the morning of 9 January, about 40 sedans were detrained in Pasewalk.
